Monday marks the start of the Environmental Nature Center's new program, aimed at parents and babies between the ages of three and nine months. Tiny Naturalists is a six-session series, taking place each Monday through October 16. The unstructured classes will be led by Mindy Schwartz, the center's outreach coordinator, and will explore the ENC's grounds while acting as a type of "Parent and Me" class. Each week, participants will hike to a different habitat on the property, spread out a big blanket and enjoy the shade under the trees. Complete with plenty of tummy time and mingling, it's a great way to get to know other parents, socialize your little ones and enjoy story time plus a song out in nature.
